

MASHA AND THE RAIN
written and illustrated by Írisz Agócs

It's raining again.

"What a pity!", moans Masha.

"I'd better stay in bed all day.

What else could I do?

Should I drink some tea

...and eat a few crunchy cookies?

No, I'd rather not.

Or should I read my favourite book...

sitting in a huge, comfortable armchair?

This doesn't seem like a good idea either.

Should I play with a puzzle?

Maybe the rain will stop by the time I finish the picture.

But I don't feel like it.

Should I maybe bake a cake...

...with a raspberry on top...

and invite Tobias and Mia over to eat it?

While we eat, we can look at the rain... Hm, I'd rather not.

It's best to stay in bed...

until this sad rain stops.

I know! I will try out my new umbrella, and count the puddles outside!

How nice the rain is!", says Masha happily.
